SCHRADER, THE HEALER

Blesses the Bandsna of the Williams News Man.

The healer, Shrader, the high cocka lorum of the nineteenth century swindlers, passed through Williams a few days ago. He stepped from the cars to the platform and wes enthusiactically received by the editor of the News, who particularly saked him to heal his empty pocket book, "You are a newspaper man?" queried the healer. "You bet; I own the greatest Arizona weekly, only $3 a year, in advance; want to subscribe," said the editor as a ray of hope illuminated his countenance. The healer looked at the scribe compassionately and said :

"My enthusisstic friend of the quill, I do not deal in things mundane. I am on earth to heal the sick through faith, but if you wish to alleviste the suffering caused by a want of funds, go into the bealing business. It pays."

The scribe accepted the kindly advice and requested the healer to bless his handkerchie'. The piece of calico or canvass, was brought forth and Schrader attempted to stamp his name on the cloth , but the dirt was so thick the stamp could not penetrate. The bealer next laid his hand affectionately on the scribe's arm and said :

"My poor fellow; you have an aggravated case of heart disease, but I must be going, for the train leaves. God be with you, my son." Turning his eyes reverentially upwards, the bealer disappeared in the car.

"We had an epidemic of dysentery in this vicinity last summer," says Sainuel S. Pollock, of Briceland, Cal. "I was taken with it and suffered severely until some one called my attention to Cham-berlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, I procured a bottle and felt better after the first dose. Before onehalf of the bottle had been used I was I recommended it to my friends and their experience was the same. We all unite in saying it is the best." for sale by Druggists.

The Ploneer Miner.

We have homes and pensions for old soldiers, but where to the home for o'd minere? We surely one them a debt Preserved and the Candidates of gratitude, and in their old age they should have honor and comfort, for they are the true soldiers of progress. Let me tell to you the story Of the miner old and gray, With his head now bowed and hoary

For he pioneered the way.

He has sluiced the alluvial gulche-He has pierced the mountainsold. In his ceaseless search for gold.

He has filled the darkest forests, Haslet in the light of day; He has sown that we migit reap. He has opened wide the way.

In his cabin on the hill side Up the gorge's mazy way, Calmly now he smokes his brirewood. Once his life was wild and gay.

To dear comrades gone before, And his lonely heart is yearning For the friends he knows no more.

Never on his knee has clambered The sweet children of his dream, Never by his side has wandered A fond wife, his heart's own queen.

For his fate, stern and relentless, Swept him onward day by day; Great his heart, his soul undaunted, He has opened wide the way. Al! pathetic, sad, sad story

Of the miner old and grey, Empty hands and heart his portion, He who pioneered the way.

AN ANCIENT CUSTOM

Please the Crowd.

The first hardship resulting from the law passed by the last legislature for the purification of Arizona politics was experienced in Willeox last Saturday night after the Republican caneas which nominated Joe Neunhuber Has thrown wide the door to progress for constable. The Willeox News says a large crowd had congregated in Geo. Raum's saloon in anticipation of Joe's following the time-honored custom of starting off his campaign by setting em up to the house. But an exceedingly wet blanket was brown over the bottled-up enthusiasm of the crowd by the announcement that such procedure was contrary to the new law.

Luckily, however, F. E. Walker, the Backward now his tho'ts are turning Democratic candidate for the same position was present and some thought ful individual made a motion that the opposing candidates play a game of seven up, the loser to acknowledge himself the poorest player, and, incidentally, trest every person present. The motion was unanimously carried with great enthusissm, and one of Arizona's mest sacred traditions pre-

Success

Nobody managed the circus business particularly well until Barnum took hold of it. and, now that he has succeeded, up come Forepaugh, and Bailey, and the rest.

The truth is, we suspect, that everybody took hold of the circus business by the wrong end - a great many businesses are taken hold of by the wrong end.

Tea, for example. Every tea-merchant knows that tea ought to be drunk as soon as possible after it is roasted; and yet all tea (in America) is roasted in far away countries, and lies for months in steamers and wholesale teawarehouses.
